Travelers Get Squeaky Clean with Topical RX Skincare Travel Kits

IRVINE, CA (March 3, 2009) - Topical RX introduces Skincare Travel Kits, offering clinical-based skincare products for those who would like to maintain their skincare routine while on the go. Featuring two ounce bottles and ¼ ounce jars, the TSA acceptable kits are ideal for customers of travel stores, and even for travel industry professionals looking for the ideal gifts for their clients.

“Women are especially attached to using quality skincare products on a daily basis; however don’t want the hassle of placing their products in smaller containers in order to meet airline requirements for carry-ons,” explained Ellen Clark, president of Topical RX. “The Skincare Travel Kits provide them with the ideal solution.”

Great for all types of travelers, whether going on a weekend jaunt or a three-week excursion, the Kit includes an average of six high quality items, from cleansers to sunscreen. Available to travel retailers and industry-professionals with only a six-piece minimum order, the kits are affordably priced at $13-$15 each, wholesale, and are available in a wide range of combinations, from those tailored to normal, dry or oily skin to acne clearing, age management and even a Men’s Essential Starter kit.

“The Travel Kits give travel retailers the opportunity to expand the type of merchandise that they offer, and most women over 30 are concerned about good skincare,” concluded Clark.

Topical Rx was developed to bring an active, high performance cosmeceutical line to consumers worldwide.
